

Local Radio Station Planned for April

A CLOSED - CIRCUIT CAMPUS radio station, KDLX, will be in operation here by the first of April, according to plans released this week by Larry White, student manager for the project.

Approval by President J. W. Jones was received March 16 and programming should begin early next month, White said.

The non-commercial station, a joint project of Alpha Phi Omega and the Radio Club, will operate during the evening hours, five days a week. Initial broadcasting will be limited to the men's quad although future extension to residence hall is planned.

"A CARRIER - CURRENT system of transmission will be used," White indicated, "with the signal carried by the regular power lines."

No special connection is needed to receive KDLX, which will operate at 560 kilocycles.

Ten to twelve students will be needed to handle announcing and programming duties, White said. A supervisory board composed of Dean Koerble, the directors of men's and women's housing, and one member each from Alpha Phi Omega and the Radio Club has been appointed.

"MUSIC TO STUDY BY" IS the programming theme with an emphasis on good, listenable music, White said. Due to the unique style of transmission, it is believed the station will have better fidelity than most AM stations.

Initial cost of the project is being financed by Alpha Phi Omega, local service fraternity, while technical details are being arranged by the Radio Club.

Studios will be located in quad six.

Equal Representation Emphasized

Presidential Platforms Outlined

By RON KING

Missourian News Editor

A MORE ENERGETIC STUDENT GOVERNMENT Association with equal representation for both Greek and independent students was emphasized as candidates for president and vice-president of the student senate outlined their platforms during the nominating convention, March 17.

Three candidates for each position have filed for the March 25 election.

"The independent has no voice in the present Student Senate," Dale Cramer, presidential candidate for the Representative Student ticket said. "I feel there is a need for a balance between the Greek and independent representation."

CLAIMING NO DIRECT Greek affiliation, this ticket is backed by a Sig Tau, Delta Zeta, Phi Lamb, Zeta Lambda coalition.

A revision of the "antiquated student government and its present constitution" was given as a major goal by Cramer who said he will "strive for a more beneficial campus life for all students."

Greater student-public relations with community and area schools was also stressed as Roger Blackwell, vice-presidential candidate for the group, indicated his intentions to raise the position of vice-president above that of a "figurehead" and act as a "personal ambassador to represent the college in high schools in the NWMSC district."

DAVID HARGRAVE, TKE-Alpha presidential candidate, stressed the need for providing "good campus leadership under the framework of the present Student Government constitution."

Hargrave stated he will provide the "effective and forceful leadership necessary to keep up with an ever expanding campus."

"I will strive to co-ordinate the student body with all phases of campus activities," he added.

Vice-presidential candidate for the TKE-Alpha coalition is Evelyn Robinson.

THE POSITION OF THE INDEPENDENT student was also emphasized by Bill Simmons, Phi Sig-Tri Sig presidential candidate, who said he was pledged to provide "equal representation for everyone."

Improvements listed in the Phi Sig-Tri Sig platform are more weekend activities for all students, improvement of the freshman orientation system and provision of more assemblies with a maintenance of high qualities in their selection.

"I wish to make this a student government in which everyone can participate," Simmons stated.

ALL THAT JAZZ

An Olive for the Cad

MAYBE WE HAVE ACQUIRED A CASE OF CREEPING-claustrophobia. Or perhaps the snow-covered signs of spring have driven the winter bird watchers association indoors. Whatever the cause, gang, the crowd seems to be growing.

We had previously thought the haze around Our Favorite Corner of the Den was impenetrable but a stranger appeared in our midst the other day, his hands folded in a neat bundle behind his back and wearing a face full of teeth that looked like a reject from an Ipana ad.

"Hey dad, dig the creature," somebody whispered in our direction. "It must be a freshman. Like, it's wearing socks."

WE NODDED TOWARD THE CREATURE AND CUT A question mark in the air with an upraised eyebrow.

"I'm Melvin," it announced brightly, "and I'm looking for a girl with a southern accent who called me a few nights ago and said to meet her here if I wanted a date."

"Oops!" That came from The Crazy Chick who was melting into a small puddle under the table. "If anybody calls, I'm out."

TCC HAD BEEN PLAYING LITTLE GAMES AGAIN AND this was a chance to throw in a joker.

"Pull up a coffee cup and sit," we offered, waving toward a chair with one hand and rubbing the teeth marks in our ankle with the other. "Mayhaps we can assist. Add some details."

"She told me her name was Merry Holiday," he said without slackening his grip on the grin, "and she had seen me around and just thought I was the cutest thing and wanted to go out with me and I'm in a hurry because I left my 1960 Cadillac convertible running outside and I've got to leave if I'm going to get to Kansas City in time for the jazz concert for which I have two tickets and was going to ask Merry to go with me."

WE HAD ASKED FOR SOME DETAILS AND THIS GUY was trying to out-stream-of-consciousness Kerouac.

"Why, Melvin, honeylamb," TCC had rematerialized. "Don't you-all recognize little ol' me? Ah'd just be plumb honored to accompany you in your 1960 Cadillac convertible to Kansas City to hear the jazz concert. Like, man, let's make it."

That's the trouble with our decadent society. People are loosing their sense of values. Imagine, selling out for a 1960 Cadillac convertible. By the way, we noticed a girl driving around campus in a Jag the other day. Now maybe if we . . .

THIS WEEK'S "ONE TO BE REPEATED"—Jim Cook, impresario of the local movie palace, informs us that a man who made his millions in the filtering business has willed his brain to the college. Not only will it add prestige to the local biology department, says Jim, it will put NWMSC in a rather unique position—the first college to have a filtering man's thinker.

The usual excuse around a newspaper office when a mis-spelling, mis-quote or any other mistake pops up is, "Couldn't help it—typographical error, you know." Of course they should be caught by the proof-reader and we were acting in that capacity on the last edition when we discovered a true gem. In a typical goof of the print shop, someone had combined the headline intended for this column with one over a story on page four. The resulting beaut was: "AWS to Hold Mass Meeting—Decisions, Always Decisions".

And so, 'till next we crawl over the back fence, keep your head down, and all that jazz.

They're Talking About . . .

. . . People who step on their thumbs . . . Our strange political system—first a queen, now a president . . . Pin holes in the chest from over-energetic campaigners . . . Queen contestants with the "quick smile" . . . The lunch line that closes at 12:14½ . . . Pillow carriers who have broken unmentionable bones . . . Band members preparing to go into the vegetable business at the end of this month . . .

The unceasing drip in the zoology lab . . . Crowds at the Den movies . . . The on-again off-again Phi Mu's . . . Dr. Harr's pop quizzes . . . Assembly speakers with traits found lacking in some instructors—the ability to stop talking when the bell rings . . . The praise-deserving crew that has been working overtime to keep the roads, sidewalks and parking lots clear.

THE STROLLER

THE FUN AND EXCITEMENT OF THE TOWER DANCE and its companion queen contest now over, The Stroller has turned her attention to the next political campaign and is enjoying the constant uproar which seems to keep our campus reverberating.

Just listening to some of the local politicians can be quite an experience. The Stroller has found that the word "politician" has acquired a few sinister connotations. Perhaps this is because it is used to wrap some of the mud which one such creature slings at another.

Since our way of life is balanced on political difference and it is indifference which is unwholesome, The Stroller hopes that every student will consider it his duty to participate in the current election. And, if he may be permitted a pun, The Stroller hopes that the platforms won't become a "lie-ability" to any of the candidates.

A NEW MENTAL MALADY called the Psychosis of the Bells seems to be sweeping the campus. Even The Stroller has noticed a ringing in her head that can't be connected with the pre- and post-Tower-Dance parties. She seems to hear at least 23 bells every hour and wonders if she is the only one so afflicted.

WITH SPRING JUST around the corner (in theory at least) cupid seems to be hard at work. In one case The Stroller noticed the arrows from de bow were aimed at Alvin. Ain't love sumpin'?

The Stroller was pleased to see the participation in serious meditation during the recent RE Week. Also pleased were the owners of the local coffee shops that seemed to do a brisk business during the first Monday assembly. Those who did attend reported the speakers were some of the best here in a long time.

The Stroller heard he was criticized lately for being too critical. Although the general opinion from the majority has usually been complete agreement with The Stroller's views, he will end with a note of praise. A tip of the faded fedora goes to the crew responsible for keeping the snow off the campus walks during this severe winter. It has been speedily done and much appreciated.

Ping-Pong, Others Planned for Union

SIX NEW PING-PONG tables will be installed soon in the old den and on the deck of the Union Building, according to Harry Bowes, Assistant Dean of Students. A shuffleboard and badminton set will also be arranged.

The television set is to be moved into the lounge area of the den and plans are being made for a stereo in the music room.

New record albums for dancing are being picked for the permanent library in the union office.

Maltby Holds Concert Here

The Richard Maltby Orchestra presented a jazz concert Tuesday, March 22.

The hour-long concert, held in the Health and Physical Education Building, was the second annual pop concert brought to the campus by Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity.

Three autographed record albums were given as a door prize.

The 1959 concert featured Les Brown.

New Schedules Available

Volleyball, Bowling Held by Men

VOLLEYBALL AND BOWLING HAVE dominated the men's intramural league for the past two weeks with bowling having just completed the first two weeks of play.

The ten-pin tournament will last until the middle of April. New schedules may be obtained from Willie VanBuren in Dr. Peterson's office of the men's gymnasium.

The Sig Taus had the most teams survive the first round play of the volleyball league with five teams coming out victorious. The TKE's, Phi Sigs, and Phi Lams each have one entry left in the final tournament.

Sig Tau teams still in tournament play are the Floggers, Mongrels, Don't Knows, Misfits, and Bookies.

The Nads, winners of the basketball tournament, are the sole survivors of first round play for the Phi Lams. The Phi Sigs are represented by the 410 All Stars. And the TKE's are relying on the TKE I to try to cop the championship.

At the time of publication, the Floggers and the 410 All Stars were the only undefeated teams left in the double-elimination tournament.

CAVANAII

Nothing unexpected occurred when the MIAA all-conference basketball team was announced recently.

Gene Jordan, Maryville's claim to fame, was one of three men that were unanimous choices. Larry Swift of Kirksville and Carl Ritter of Cape were the other two unanimous selections.

Twenty six men were nominated for the two teams selected. Leland Jackson, Bearcat big man under the boards, was edged out by the narrow margin of one vote for a berth on the second team.

Jordan finished the season with a total of 505 points in 23 games for an average of 21.96 points per game. In conference play Gene racked up a total of 216 for an average of 21.6 points per game.

Leland Jackson, Bearcat number two man in the lineup, finished conference play with a total of 143 points for an average of 14.3 points per outing. This feat enabled "Goose" to finish in seventh position among all scorers in the conference.

The Bearcats finished first in team defense, holding the opponents to an average of 57.26 points per game. Springfield was second in team defense with 64.74 points being all they allowed opponents.

M'ville men were second in least fouls committed with a team total of 408. Cape was the leader in that department with a total of 385.

The 'Cats ranked second among conference teams for the best over-all record. Springfield and Maryville each had records of 14 wins and 9 losses.
